MERRILL AND BAKER

WILL PUBLISH

The Gentleman's Library.

Limited to 450 Numbered and 26 Special Lettered Copies of Each Volume. . . .

The Gentleman's Library will contain the gems of the literature of all ages, especially selected with a view to sumptuous illustration. The work of the most famous artists of the past and present times will be found in its various volumes, selected, reproduced, and printed under the direct supervision of Mr. G. W. H. Ritchie, insuring the very highest standard of excellence.

There will be from 12 to 20 illustrations in each volume, consisting of Etchings, Steel-Engravings, and Photogravures printed on Dickinson's hand-made buff etching paper, peculiarly adapted for producing the most artistic results. Neither pains nor expense will be spared in making THE GENTLEMAN'S LIBRARY the most beautifully illustrated series of Classics extant.

The paper selected for the text is the "Enfield Hand-made," which, combined with large type, well spaced, and the best presswork obtainable, will produce a volume acceptable to the most exacting bibliophile.

The volumes will be bound in a royal purple cloth, made especially for the series, and embellished on back and side with a handsome and appropriate design in gold, rich and artistic, edges entirely untrimmed with the exception of the tops of burnished gold.

Although the size will be a square octavo the lightness of the hand-made paper admits of their being read without tiring the hand. The price, $3.00 net, per volume.

Twenty-six special copies of each work will be issued, lettered from A to Z.

The lettered copies will contain special duplicate proofs of all the illustrations; one set printed in blue on Imperial Japan paper, and the other in sepia on Holland Hand-made.

Each subscriber will in addition be presented with a complete set of proofs of the illustrations printed in black, each of them mounted and each enclosed in a torchon mat about 12 x 14 inches, suitable for framing. Of this set the frontispiece will be on heavy satin and the others on silk Japan.

Subscriptions for these copies will be received for the complete series only, and the subscriber's name printed on the title-page of his copy Subscribers will be allowed to select their own style of binding, to be executed by the Publishers, free of charge. Price per volume, $30.00 net.

There will be no reissue of any of this series, no matter what the demand may be, and subscriptions for the entire series will be received and will take precedence over those for single numbers only.

Subscribers to the entire series can have their names registered and the same number allotted to them throughout.

It is the intention to publish the numbers as far as possible in one volume, and at intervals of one month. The following works are announced, beginning in September, 1896:

Memoirs of the Count De Grammont. By Anthony Hamilton. Edited by Sir Walter Scott.
Romola. By George Eliot.
The Makers of Florence. By Mrs. Oliphant.
The Makers of Venice. By Mrs. Oliphant.
Royal Edinburgh. By Mrs Oliphant.
The Little Minister. By J. M. Barrie.
Frederick the Great and His Court. By Muhlbach.
Tales from Shakespeare. By Charles and Mary Lamb.
The Last Days of Pompeii. By Bulwer Lytton.
Lorna Doone. By Blackmore.
Persian Tales. To be newly translated.
The Bohemians of the Latin Quarter. By Murger.

HARPER & BROTHERS' NEW BOOKS

JUST PUBLISHED:

THE UNDER SIDE OF THINGS

A Novel. By LILIAN BELL. With a Portrait. 16mo, Cloth, Ornamental, Uncut edges and Gilt Top, $1.25.

Miss Bell has written an attractive story in her characteristically magnetic and swinging manner. It makes an ideal book for the leisure hour, to which a glimpse of gold-lace and natty West Point uniforms gives an added charm. The book will be hailed by Miss Bell's admirers as an advance on even her own previous good work.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

THE LOVE-AFFAIRS OF AN OLD MAID. 16mo, Cloth, Ornamental, Uncut Edges and Gilt Top, $1.25.

MARK TWAIN'S CONNECTICUT YANKEE

(New Edition)

A CONNECTICUT YANKEE IN KING ARTHUR'S COURT. By MARK TWAIN. New Edition, from New Electrotype Plates. With Photogravure Portrait of the Author and other Illustrations. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.75.

A new edition of Mark Twain's well-known story will be welcomed by all the admirers of that genial humorist. Those who are familiar with the story will be glad to re-read it in a new form, and others will extract much delight from the endless humor contained in this contrast of sixth and nineteenth century ideas.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF JOAN OF ARC. By the SIEUR LOUIS DE CONTE, her Page and Secretary. Translated by JEAN FRANCOIS ALDEN. Illustrated by F. V. DU MOND. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $2.50.

THE ADVENTURES OF HUCKLEBERRY FINN. By MARK TWAIN. New Edition from New Electrotype Plates. With Photogravure Portrait of the Author and other Illustrations. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.75.

HONOR ORMTHWAITE

A Novel. By the Author of "Lady Jean's Vagaries." Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.00.

In this story of quiet English home life there is nothing of the "new" method, and not a hint of any kind of "ism," and yet it manages to hold the reader's attention to the end. The plot is one of the oldest known in fiction, but the author handles it with such deftness that it reads like something altogether new. There is no higher art than this.

JERRY THE DREAMER

A Novel. By WILL PAYNE. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.25.

Mr. Payne presents a story of common things, but there is that in the telling which will compel the attention of the listener unto the very end. His touch is both fine and true, as witness the picture of a newspaper office; and he gets his effects by purely legitimate means. There is real life in the book.

WESSEX TALES

A Novel. By THOMAS HARDY. Illustrated. New Edition, with Etched Frontispiece. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.50.

OTHER VOLUMES IN THE NEW AND UNIFORM EDITION OF THOMAS HARDY'S NOVELS:

NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish at once "Sport in the Alps," by W. A. Baillie Grohman, with numerous illustrations from instantaneous photographs.

FREDERICK A. STOKES CO. have in preparation a volume of short stories entitled "The Heart of Princess Osra." Strelsau, familiar to readers of "The Prisoner of Zenda," forms the background for the new stories.

D. APPLETON & CO. will publish at once a book entitled "Yekl, a tale of the New York ghetto," by Abraham Cahan, who has made a close and careful study of life among the Russian Jews of New York's East Side. Mr. Cahan is a Russian Jew himself, and for the past twelve years has lived among the people whose woes and joys he depicts.

HARPER & BROTHERS publish this week a pleasant new story by Lilian Bell, entitled "The Under Side of Things"; "Honor Ormthwaite," a story of English life, by the author of Lady Jean's Vagaries"; "Jerry the Dreamer," a story of Western life, by Will Payne; and new editions of Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" and of Hardy's "Wessex Tales."

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK CO. has now ready the new edition of W. Clark Russell's "An Ocean Free Lance," with illustrations by Harry L. V. Parkhurst; "A Stable for Nightmares, or, weird tales," by J. Sheridan Le Fanu, Sir Charles Young, and others; "The Shadow of Hilton Fernbrook," a romance of Maoriland, by Atha Westbrook; and "An Adirondack Romance," by Caroline Washburn Rockwood.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish shortly "Camping in the Canadian Rockies," by Walter D. Wilcox, of Washington. Mr. Wilcox has contributed several papers in both English and American magazines, descriptive of explorations in the Rocky Mountains. The present volume will treat of excursions and explorations in the country near Banff and Lake Louise, also in the Selkirk Range. The work, besides giving graphic descriptions of the adventures of Mr. Wilcox and party during several years of camp-life in this picturesque region, will make a comparison between the territory described and other parts of the Dominion, and will give, in a general way, the main features of the geology, botany, fauna, and climatic conditions of the mountains. The work will contain many full-page photogravure plates and illustrations in the text.

MACMILLAN & CO. announce for immediate publication Leibnitz's "Critique of Locke: new essays on the understanding," translated from the French by Alfred G. Langley, with an appendix containing a number of Leibnitz's shorter pieces not hitherto translated. The book includes a translation of the entire fifth volume of Gerhard's edition of "The Philosophical Writings of Leibnitz," consisting of an introduction by Gerhardt, several short pieces on Locke's "Essay Concerning Human Understanding," and the "New Essays"; also an appendix containing, among other writings of Leibnitz, the "Essai de Dynamique"; the "Specimen Dynamicum"; the letter to Jacob Thomasius, April 20–30, 1669; an appendix to a letter to H. Fabri, 1702; and a letter on the "Law of Continuity." The book is provided with complete indexes, which have purposely been made full, and in which the utmost possible care has been taken to secure accuracy of reference. They have in preparation "The Introduction to Public Finance," by Prof. Carl L. Plehn, of the University of California, which treats of public expenditures, public revenues, public indebtedness, and financial administration; "A History of Elementary Mathematics," a popular history of those parts of mathematics which are taught in public and high schools, by Dr. Florian Cajori, of Colorado College; also, a volume of short stories, by Henry James, entitled "Embarrassments." The studies are entitled "The Figure in the Carpet," "Glasses," "The Next Time," and "The Way It Came," and are sketched in Mr. James's usual minute and clever manner.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Y., Appleton, 1895. c. 2+271 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 194.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [1989

The story relates solely to the adventures of Mary Howard, a young English journalist; she is travelling with a woman companion across the continent on the Canadian Pacific Railway from the town of Vancouver, when one night walking in her sleep she steps off the train into a bank of snow. She has a series of marvellous adventures among the wild, rough men of the desolate region in which she finds herself. Mary Howard had considered herself an advanced woman and rather despised feminine virtues; through her adventures it is shown that woman's strongest weapons are her weakness and purity.

The scene is laid in the western division of New South Wales on a huge sheep-raising estate worked as two separate stations. It is the storekeeper and overseer to the manager of Marropina, one of the stations, who is the hero. The heroine is a pretty, illiterate girl, the daughter of a man keeping a public-house, and is the barmaid of the place. Her marriage with the hero is a most unhappy one, ending with her elopement with another man. A good picture of Australian life

"The book is a collection of fine thoughts on language—its use, its growth, the study of its mechanics, its grammatical and logical structures, the order of mastering its use in speaking, reading, and writing—first in the primary, next in the grammar school, and after in the high school and college; its place in the cultivation of the powers of thought, the study of literary works of art, the significance of philology among the sciences."—Preface.

Honor Ormthwaite: a novel; by the author of "Lady Jean's vagaries." N. Y., Harper, 1896. c. 3+253 p. D. cl., $1. [2005

Honor Clay, an English peasant girl, separated from her worthless husband, and leaving her baby with her cousin, Lydia Atkins, became a servant for a farmer's wife. Here she met Gregory Ormthwaite, a wealthy member of Parliament, who fell in love with her and married her. She believed her child was dead, and knew her first husband was. Lydia came to her and told her the child was alive. Honor, to avoid disgracing her husband, concealed the news, and thereafter was haunted with a belief that she had done wrong. Great trouble came to her, but finally her husband found out, and it was shown Lydia Atkins had imposed on her.

Knapp, Mary Clay. Whose soul have I now? a novel. Bost., Arena Pub. Co., 1896. c. 242 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c. [2006

The author believes that the material age is passing away; that the present is the age of spirit, of love, of giving and doing all for the sake of humanity; and that only through suffering do we rise to the soul's height. She holds that the life of the heroine of the story proves that the perfect woman exists only when the material development equals the higher mental and spiritual, and that by intimate association with such a woman a man who is purely material and selfish may, through the triumph of his sense of justice, become a humanitarian and bless the world by pure and disinterested service.

Koch, Richert v. Camilla: a novel; from the Swedish and Danish; il. by Edmund H. Garrett. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1896.] c. 4+305 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2007

The scene is laid in Stockholm. Camilla is a Danish girl, highly educated, who startles the Crusenborg family, who are staid conservative and aristocratic Swedes, with her heresies on all social and religious topics. She shows character and heart. As a foil to Camilla, Anna Crusenborg shows the same strength of character by joining the Salvation Army. Some of the scenes in which the girls do good give valuable details of domestic Swedish life.

McCartney, Catherine Robertson. The hero of the ages: a story of the Nazarene. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., [1896.] c. 3-240 p. D. cl., $1. [2011

An historical story introducing scenes from the life of Christ. Among the notable incidents are the wedding of Cana, when Jesus changes the water into wine; his meeting with the Samaritan woman at the well; his temptation by Satan in the wilderness; his first meeting with Mary Magdalen; his interview with Nicodemus, and other events which preceded his crucifixion—the resurrection closing the story.

McCosh, Ja. The life of James McCosh: a record chiefly autobiographical; ed by W: Milligan Sloane. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1896. c. 6+287 p. por. O. cl., net, $2.50. [2012

Dr. McCosh's life covered nearly a century of time; he was born in 1811 and died in 1894; his autobiography describes his early life in Scotland; his life at the Glasgow and Edinburgh Universities; his first and second pastorates in Scotland; his public life in Ireland, and finally the twenty years during which he was president of Princeton College. The volume includes a bibliography of Dr. McCosh's more important works—covering 13 pages—by Joseph H. Dulles. Index.

Maury, Nannie Belle. Whalers and whaling. New Bedford, Mass., H. S. Hutchinson & Co., 1896. c. 72 p. il. obl. D. cl., net, $1. [2017

The whale ship as it starts out on its voyage, the life aboard her, and her appearance as she returns home are the subjects of this little sketch.

Meredith, Mrs. Katharine Mary Cheever, ["Johanna Staats," pseud.] Green Gates: an analysis of foolishness. N. Y., Appleton, 1896. c. 6+257 p. S. cl., $1.25. [2018

A Long Island country house, where the greater part of the story is enacted, gives the title "Green Gates" to the book. The plot is slight and sad—dealing with the unhappy love of a young girl for a married man. There is an abundance of dialogue and scenes from fashionable New York life in the city and country.

Minnesota Church Club. Unity and the Lambeth declaration: lectures under the auspices of the Minnesota Church Club, 1896. Milwaukee, Wis., The Young Churchman Co., 1896. c. 2-186 p. D. cl., net, 50 c. [2019

Payne, Will. Jerry the dreamer: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1896. c. 2+299 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2026

Jerry Drew came to Chicago from a small country village and gradually worked himself into a good position on a newspaper. He met Georgie, the daughter of Judge House, and ran away with her. After his marriage he became insanely jealous of Sidney Bane, his wife's cousin, and at the same time developed socialistic theories. Gradually he drifted away from his wife and lost his position, and the socialistic newspaper in which he had an interest failed. The story paints a man who dreams, who is without any logical power, and who torments himself.

Smith, Rev. J: Talbot. Our seminaries: an essay on clerical training. N. Y., W: H. Young & Co., 1896. c. 12+327 p. D. cl., $1. [2032

Divided into six parts, discussing The standard; Health, strength, and manners; Certain arts of expression; The spiritual life; The missionary spirit; The intellectual life. The writer says it is admitted on all sides that the clerical training of fifty years ago is not the thing for these times as far as methods and external features are concerned. His work discusses changes that might be made, and is generally helpful and suggestive.

Spenser, Edmund. Faerie Queene; pictured and decorated by L. Fairfax-Muckley; with an introd. by J. W. Hales. In 13 or 14 pts. Pt. 1. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1896. 80 p. 12°, Limited ed., pap., $1. [2033

Elinor Mortimer, spinster, living alone in a fashionable part of London, finds her life of ease interrupted by the advent of her dead brother's five children, of whom she had been made sole guardian. These five clever, beautiful children are the "truth-tellers." Brought up on one of the Shetland Islands in an utterly unconventional way, and taught by their father to tell the bare unadorned truth on all occasions, their contact with artificial life brings about some funny episodes.

Vachell, Horace Annesley. The quicksands of Pactolus: a novel. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1896. c. 2+324 p. D. cl., $1. [2037

Rufus Barrington, a New Englander, immigrating to California when gold was first discovered in that state, invests his money skilfully, and later founds a bank; becoming a financial power after his wealth is almost as countless as the golden sands of the mythical river for which the story is named. The history of Rufus and family is noteworthy, because it illustrates the social effects of rapid wealth accumulation on the Pacific slope.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 13, 1896.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

EARLIEST COMBINATION OF AMERICAN SCHOOL-BOOK PUBLISHERS.

ABOUT 1802 we hear of the first combination of school-book publishers in New York and Philadelphia. In New York the following ten firms:

Thomas & James Swords, Nos. 99 and 160 Pearl Street,
George F. Hopkins, No. 118 Pearl Street,
Peter A. Mester, No. 107 Pearl Street,
James Oram, No. 102 Water Street,
Stephen Stephens, No. 165 Pearl Street,
Thomas S. Arden, No. 186 Pearl Street,
William Falconer, No. 112 Pearl Street,
Evert Duyckink, No. 110 Pearl Street,
Isaac Collins & Son, No. 189 Pearl Street,
T. B. Jansen & Co., No. 248 Pearl Street,

under the collective name of "The New York Association of Booksellers," respectfully informed the public "that, with a view to lessen the number of imported Books, which are now becoming exceedingly advanced in Price," they "have associated themselves for the Purpose of giving correct American Editions of such elementary Works as are in general use in our Schools, Academies and Colleges; and also for the publication of such other Books as may be interesting to the Community, or conducive to the advancement of general knowledge.

"While many of our Fellow Citizens are projecting the Good of their Country in Matters of greater Importance, it is hoped this Attempt will not be regarded as of no moment. In this small Way thousands of Dollars may be annually saved to our Country."

The first book published by this association was:

"CICERO'S | SELECT ORATIONS, | translated into English; | with | The original Latin, from the Best | Editions, in the opposite page; | and | Notes, Historical, Critical and Explanatory. | Designed for the use of Schools as well as private Gentlemen. | By William Duncan, | Professor of Philosophy in the University of Aberdeen. First American Edition | Carefully Revised and Corrected, By Malcolm Campbell, A. M. | Teacher of Languages. | New York | Printed by George F. Hopkins, at Washington's Head. | For The New York Association of Booksellers | 1802."

The volume, a neat sixteenmo of vi + 671 pages, was dedicated, by permission, to Rt. Rev. Benjamin Moore, D.D., Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the State of New York, and President of Columbia College.

On November 17, 1803, William Poyntell & Co., of Philadelphia, issued from their "Office of the Classic Press" a circular addressed to "men of letters in general and to booksellers in particular," similar in import to the New York Association of Booksellers. There is sufficient evidence to warrant that the "Classic Press" was backed by a number of Philadelphia booksellers, and that Poyntell & Co. was selected to act as spokesmen. The circular referred to states that "All books published at this press shall be at least equal, if not superior in quality to the London editions—and the most strict attention will be paid to their accuracy. The prices will, in most cases, be fixed lower than those at which the London editions of equal quality are sold in this country.

"The terms for one hundred copies of any work will be twelve months' credit, with a deduction of 33⅓ per cent. from the retail prices. For fifty copies, and not less than twenty-five, nine months' credit, and a like deduction.

"For every increase of fifty copies above a hundred copies, an extension of credit will be allowed beyond twelve months.

"It will be optional with the trade, either to take the works in sheets or bound, under the usual regulations."

The Classic Press Series included editions of Virgil, Horace, Ovid, Cæsar, Sallust, Ainsworth's Dictionary, Ferguson's Astronomy, and Lensden's Greek and Latin Testaments. The Philadelphia booksellers that are supposed to have been interested in this movement were:

James Humphries, Walnut and Dock Streets.
Wm. Fry, 30 Chestnut Street.
Benjamin, Jacob, and Robert Johnson, 39 High Street.
Joseph Groff, 75 S. 2d Street.
Hugh Maxwell, 25 N. 2d Street.
Conrad & Co.

In 1824 Henry C. Carey, a son of Matthew Carey, made an attempt to form a publishers' association, but in vain. His efforts, however, resulted in the beginning of trade sales in the fall of 1824. At first these sales were made exclusively by the firm of Carey & Lea. They were continued semi-annually until, at length, in the year preceding the outbreak of the war between the North and South, the joint sales of Philadelphia and New York amounted to upwards of half a million of dollars.

It was not until 1855 that another booksellers' association was called into life. This was first named The New York Publishers' Association, but later assumed the broader title of The Publishers' Association, and, later still, the more definite title of The Book Publishers' Association. The organizer and working member (at least in the formative period) of this active and useful association was George Palmer Putnam. Its permanent president was W. W. Appleton. During its unfortunately brief career it assumed the publication of The American Publishers' Circular and Literary Gazette, which was first edited by its founder, Charles B. Norton, who was then also made assistant secretary and librarian of the Publishers' Association, and later by Charles B. Rode. About June, 1861, the Publishers' Association seems to have come to an end, and Mr. Rode thenceforth continued the Circular on his own responsibility. In the issue for June 22, 1861, occurs the following significant notice, which probably also accounts for the lapse of the Publishers' Association: "After the next number of this Journal, and until the revival of the book trade, we shall issue but one edition per month. The entire absorption of public interest by current events has caused a nearly complete cessation in the demand for new books, and publishers have in consequence discontinued their usual issues. As our principal purpose is to inform the trade of the operations of the publishing and literary world, it has seemed advisable to adopt this course, both from apparent and economical reasons." In March, 1863, poor Rode gave up the struggle, and in May of the same year George W. Childs continued the Circular as a fortnightly and in a changed form. From that date begins the era of uninterrupted American book-trade journalism.

THE trade will learn with extreme regret of the assignment of A. D. F. Randolph & Co., both because of the long and honorable association of this house with the trade, and because of the personal affection which nearly every member of the trade has for the head of the house. Heavy expenses have for some years back drained the resources of the firm, for the retail business, which centred so closely about Mr. Randolph's personality, was not able to hold its own against the new lines of competition. Mr. Randolph bore up bravely after the great sorrow which came to him a few months since in the loss of the loved companion of his life, but the stress of business strain, added to this, began to tell upon him seriously, and it became imperatively necessary, under physician's orders, for him to leave town and for the time give up active relation with the business. The sale of the retail business to the Baptist Publication Society, which desired a retail outlet in New York, negotiated by Mr. Arthur D. F. Randolph, was an especially wise move, under the general circumstances, but it did not furnish sufficient funds to stem the tide of difficulty, and many of the retail accounts, left over for collection, have been, we understand, extremely difficult to collect. The publishing business proper, which has been vigorously and successfully pushed by Mr. Arthur Randolph, has given promise of an unexpectedly good result for the year, but the immediate demands could not be met. It is sincerely to be hoped that such arrangements may be effected as will enable the firm to resume the publication business, with relief from present pressure and with prospects of earning in the future sufficient return for the ultimate payment of the present debts dollar for dollar.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO INTRODUCE KIOSKS IN NEW YORK.

A NEW kiosk scheme, recalling the Defossey scheme which was killed at Albany, N. Y., last winter, was presented to the aldermen of New York City on the 9th inst. by Alderman Noonan. It was in the shape of a resolution authorizing "A, B, and C" to build a stand under every elevated railroad station in New York, and maintain it there for twenty years, the aldermen to designate a newspaper vendor who shall occupy, rent free, a part of each booth. It also stipulated that "A, B, and C" shall furnish free ice-water and a lavatory at each booth, and allow police, fire, and ambulance calls to be put in, and provide a space for a directory. "A, B, and C" are to use the booths for advertising purposes, and turn them over to the city after the twenty years. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Streets.

Alderman Ware presented to the board the draft of an independent ordinance governing the placing of newspaper stands underneath the stairs of the elevated railroad. It provided that the applicant must be a citizen of the United States, must be endorsed by the alderman of his district, and must pay $25 a year for the privilege; and that the stands must not be more than seven feet high or wider than the stairway. The ordinance was laid over.

The Newsdealers' and Stationers' Protective and Benevolent Association met in the evening of the 9th inst. at 8 Union Square to protest against the granting of any "kiosk" privileges, and passed a resolution discountenancing the use of any stands in the city of New York for permanent advertising of any special nature whatever.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF PUBLISHERS.

THE INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF PUBLISHERS begins its sessions on June 15. Almost all the delegates have arrived in Paris. France, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Russia, Denmark, Norway, Austria, Portugal, England, and the United States are represented. Among the English delegates are Richard Bentley, John Murray, R. B. Marston, T. Fisher-Unwin, Kegan Paul, John C. Nimmo, William Heinemann, C. J. Longman, and Edmond Routledge. The United States will be represented by D. C. Heath, Patrick Farrelly, of the American News Co., and Ernest Steiger. The questions to be taken up in this important conference were fully stated in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for February 22, 1896.

BIBLIOGRAPHY AS AN AID IN THE STUDY OF HISTORY.

HACHETTE ET CIE., Paris, have just issued a "Manuel de Bibliographie Historique," prepared by Charles V. Langlois, professor of the auxiliary sciences of history in the Faculté des Lettres de Paris. The material he has here brought together was gathered and used for his pupils during a four years' course. M. Langlois rightly holds that of all the auxiliary sciences relating to historical study, that of bibliography is the most useful and the most neglected. A course in bibliography has generally been confined to future librarians, but M. Langlois insists upon it that students of every art and science should be properly instructed in bibliography, that they may use all existing bibliographical tools to advantage and avoid giving time and wearing research to the production of books relating to subjects already covered far more authoritatively than they can hope to emulate.

The "Manuel" is divided into two parts. The first part deals with general and special bibliographies of interest to historians—first the universal bibliographies, then bibliographies of certain countries, then those embracing certain periods of time and certain allied subjects. The second part deals specially with the necessary bibliographies for the study of history. The writer gives to the word history a large meaning, and the bibliographies given include religious history, literary history, the history of art, of sciences, the history of law and of social science, diplomatic history, military history, the history of philosophy, of pedagogy, etc.

A careful survey of M. Langlois's compact little volume shows that his material is thoroughly up to date. His survey of the bibliographical work now being accomplished in the different countries is comprehensive and appreciative.

His book ends with a summary of all he has attempted to do and a statement of his hopes and demand for exhaustive national bibliographies which should be compiled under proper organization, that much of the energy, time, and money now expended in constant duplication of material might be preserved for more far-reaching bibliographical undertakings. An excellent index leads to all the subject-matter, and is in itself a most useful summary of bibliographies.

HOW TO JUDGE THE SIZE OF AN OLD BOOK.

A WRITER in the London Book and News Trade Gazette says: "I have found an infallible rule for judging accurately the size of an old book. Prior to 1800, before the advent of machine-made paper, the water-line of a sheet ran, in a folio book, from the top of the page to the bottom. In a quarto volume, the sheet having again been folded, the water-line runs across the page horizontally. Folded again (8vo) the water-line again assumes the perpendicular; and on being folded once more is 16mo. The great difficulty cataloguers experience is in distinguishing a cut-down folio from a quarto, and a 12mo from a 16mo. This rule of the water-line is a simple one, and is infallible. All that it is necessary to remember is that the water-line in a folio book is upright, and make the folio a standard for all other sizes. Therefore, in

Folio, the direction of the water-line runs				|
4to (quarto),	"	"	"	—
8vo (octavo),	"	"	"	|
16mo (sixteenmo),	"	"	"	—
12mo (twelvemo),	"	"	"	—
32mo (thirty-twomo)	"	"	"	|

Of course, each time that the sheet is folded the water-line takes a different direction, except in the case of 12mo, when, only being partially refolded, it remains the same as 16mo."

COMMUNICATIONS.

GROLIER CLUB AND GROLIER SOCIETY.

BOSTON, MASS., June 10, 1896.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: In your issue of June 6, under the above heading, you publish a statement signed by Mr. Samuel P. Avery, president of the Grolier Club, which is not only not founded on fact, but has not a grain of truth in it. Our house is not only not publishing the work referred to, but has no interest whatever in it other than it might have in any book which it bought of a publisher and sold as a regular bookseller. Your correspondent could have ascertained the fact that there is in this city a publishing concern regularly incorporated and doing business under the title of "The Grolier Society," and that it has an agency in Paris. Its imprint is not, as stated, "Paris-London," but "Paris-Boston." Our firm, which he mentions as issuing the work published by this corporation, has not a share of the stock of the company or any direct interest in it. We trust that you will give this communication the same publicity that you have the misstatement, which was no doubt unintentional on the part of the president of the Grolier Club, and that he will, so far as he is able, endeavor to correct his misstatement. ESTES & LAURIAT.

OBITUARY NOTES.

SIR GEORGE JOHNSON, M.D., a well-known authority and writer on diseases of the kidneys, died in London, June 3. He was born in Kent in 1818.

ERNESTO ROSSI, Italian actor and playwright, died in Pescara, Italy, on the 4th inst. He was born in Leghorn in 1829. In 1881 he published his autobiography under the title of "Forty Years of Artistic Life." He visited the United States in the winter of 1881–'82.

WYATT EATON, the artist and illustrator, died at Renfrew Park, near Newport, R. I., on the 7th inst., aged 47 years. He was born in Phillipsburg, Canada, May 6, 1849. Among his best-known pictures is the portrait of William Cullen Bryant, that attracted considerable attention and discussion when engraved for the Century (then Scribner's) magazine.

JULES SIMON, the French statesman and author, died in Paris on the 8th inst. Jules François Simon-Suisse was born at L'Orient, Morbihan, December 31, 1814. On his arrival in Paris Victor Cousin advised Simon to abbreviate his patronymic, and so after 1839 he was known only as Jules Simon. He was the author of many philosophical, social, and political works. He also brought out editions, with important introductions, of the philosophical works of Descartes, Bossuet, Malebranche, and Antoine Arnauld, and contributed to the Revue des Deux Mondes and other periodicals. He obtained distinction as an authority on historical and economic subjects.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

WILLIAMSON, Joseph. A Bibliography of the State of Maine, from the earliest period to 1891. Portland, Me., The Thurston Print, 97½ Exchange Street, 1896. 2 v., 8+738; 2+699 p. 8°, cl., $7.

For many years Mr. Williamson has been at work con amore on the great task of collecting material for these two valuable volumes. His patience, perseverance, and diligence have been beyond measure, and we know that he has availed himself of every possible source of information that could throw light upon doubtful points that have come up in the course of the work. His plan confines itself to matters printed in or having reference to Maine, and "also all of which the authors were, at the time of writing or publishing, residents within the State." He excludes public, municipal, and legal reports, and pamphlets not relating to historical, literary, charitable, or religious organizations. He also "excludes the writings of native authors, printed or published after they have ceased to be residents, unless these have some special relation to Maine." This cuts out a great number of titles of works by authors whose names appear with only a meagre record, and of others whose names one might expect to find, for the "Sons of Maine" fill no small space in American literature.

Under both authors and subjects the 10,000 titles are arranged chronologically instead of alphabetically, consequently if one knows not the date of the book he is looking for he must search through the whole list. This is especially noticeable among the "Miscellaneous" entries under Bowdoin College. Title entries are sometimes given, but seemingly under no regular plan; e.g., of sixteen titles under J. W. Chickering one—"First Ripe Fruit Gathered"—is given as a title entry (not needed, as there is also a biographical subject entry); but "The Hillside Church" has no title entry, nor is there a subject entry under "Portland—High St. Church." Other points of peculiar arrangement might be noted, but the author has forestalled close criticism by saying that "the book may lack some of the characteristics of a technical bibliography."

However, it remains to congratulate the author on the great and valuable work he has performed, and the Maine Historical Society on the very creditable contribution to American bibliography for which we are indebted to their kind auspices.

BOOK SALES OF 1895: a record of the most important books sold at auction and the prices realized, with an introduction, notes, and index by Temple Scott. London, P. Cockram, 1896. 10+443 p. 8°, cl. net, 12*s*.

One would think that in J. H. Slater's "Book-Prices Current," published for the past nine years by Elliot Stock, of London, the subject of auction sales of books had been exhausted. P. Cockram, the publisher of the ably edited English book-trade journal Bookselling, however, thought that there was room for another such record, and the result is the fine volume entitled "Book Sales of 1895," etc. The editor of "Book Sales for 1895" describes 5695 "lots" disposed of at 62 auction sales, including two American libraries, the Foote and Alexander collections; "Book-Prices Current" for the same period records 6748 "lots" sold at 64 auction sales, including one American sale—the Foote library. The comparison thus far seems to be in favor of "Book-Prices Current," which contains a record of 1053 more books than its competitor. The features, however, that will recommend the "Book Sales" to the collector and bibliographer are the full titles and the frequent notes, referring to the condition of the books sold, etc., desiderata which Mr. Slater's volume lacks, but which, as we noted in our last week's issue, he intends to supply in future volumes of his "Book-Prices Current." Another fact that may weigh in favor of "Book Sales" is its much lower price —12*s*. 6*d*. as against 27*s*. 6*d*. for "Book-Prices Current." The publisher of "Book Sales," further, has begun the issue of the volume for 1896 in quarterly parts in order that subscribers shall have the opportunity to utilize the information at the earliest moment possible. Mr. Scott furthermore announces that where possible the names of the purchasers of the lots will also be given in "Book Sales," which will be an exceedingly valuable addition to the record. If an alphabetical arrangement under each sale were adopted the quarterly parts could be made well-nigh indispensable to the bookseller. As it is, all interested in the purchase and sale of books are deeply indebted to the publisher of "Book Sales," not alone for the work he has furnished, but in stimulating his predecessor also to do better work. While both seem to work on identically the same lines, the material, owing to the personal equation that prompts the compilers to make their selection, is often widely dissimilar, so that one volume may be said in some particulars to complement the other. The collector or bookseller, therefore, who wishes to have an approximately complete record of the books sold must have both works. Henry Stevens, Son & Stiles, 39 Gt. Russell St., London, are the agents of the work for America.

CARLO CLAUSEN, Turin, Italy, has just issued the first supplement to the "Bibliotheca Bibliographica Italica—catalogo degli scritti di bibliologia, bibliografia e biblio teconomia pubblicati in Italia," etc., compiled by G. Ottino, librarian of the Turin National Library, and G. Fumagalli, librarian of the Naples University Library. The supplement has been prepared by Ottino alone, and contains 364 author titles and a subject index of 7 pages. (45 p. 8°, pap. Lira 2.50.)

KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH, TRÜBNER & CO., of London, have just issued the ninth part of their superb "Bibliographica." Robert K. Douglas contributes an interesting essay on "Japanese Illustrated Books," with reproductions from a number of the books, printed in color in facsimile of the originals, as well as some in the text. Dr. R. Garnett furnishes an article on "The Early Italian Book Trade," which gives an analysis of the character of the productions of the Italian printers during the first few years of their activity, especially in Rome and Venice. Natalis Rondot, in an article entitled "La Gravure sur bois à Lyon au XVe Siècle," presents a vivid picture of an epoch in the history of wood-engraving little known to the general reader. "Once A Week: a great magazine," by Joseph Pennell, is an appreciative sketch of the work of such great draughtsmen as Leech, Tenniel, Millais, H. K. Brown, C. Keene, and others, with reproductions of some of their work. H. B. Wheatley describes "The Strawberry Hill Press," founded by Horace Walpole in 1757, and its manager, Thomas Kirgate. The article contains also a short list of books and pamphlets printed at this famous printing-house. The concluding articles are "Notes on Early Music Printing," by W. Barclay Squire, and "The Woodcut Designs for Illumination in Venetian Books, 1469–'73," by Alfred W. Pollard, both of which contain specimen engravings of the works they describe. Three more parts will complete this unique and noteworthy contribution to bibliography. Charles Scribner's Sons are the American agents for the work, which is limited to 250 copies in this country and 600 copies in England.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

ALDIS WRIGHT is at work on a new edition of "The Anatomy of Melancholy," in which Burton's references will be traced and his quotations verified. Nobody is better qualfied for such work than Mr. Wright, whose reading is immense. The late Mr. Shilleto displayed laudable industry in turning up the quotations in classical writers; but he did little for the citations of the Fathers, and he almost wholly neglected the references to mediæval authors. The various editions of the "Anatomy," too, need collating, and nobody could do such work more thoroughly than Mr. Wright.

FREDERIQUE SARCEY, the noted French critic, has written a letter to the Recueil des Ventes explaining his anxiety as to the fate of certain of his treasured books, which are at present lost owing to the carelessness of a binder's apprentice. These works, which are not really priceless, being chiefly endeared by dedications, autographs of givers, and marginal memoranda, were sent to be rebound. The binder sent them out to be gilded. The boy scraped acquaintance with an older man, who represented himself as a lace-drummer and coaxed the urchin to run an errand for him. He had disappeared with the bundle before the return of the binder's lad. M. Sarcey has extensively advertised his loss, and still hopes to get his books back.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ABERDEEN, S. DAK.—E. E. Salisbury, of the firm of Salisbury & Bro., has left for Cripple Creek, where he will open a book and stationery store.

ALBIA, IA.—H. D. Knox, bookseller, has sold out.

ATLANTA, GA.—The entire stock and fixtures of Burke's old book-store, 38 Marietta St., ordered sold by the Superior Court, was purchased by James F. Meegan, 23 Marietta St.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Herman F. Siemers, bookseller, 226 South Broadway, has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors to Peter C. Tomie, who gave a bond for $2000. The cause of the failure was the inability of Mr. Siemers to collect outstanding obligations.

CANASTOTA, N. Y.—The book and stationery store of Marion Northup has been closed by the sheriff on judgment and execution in favor of Margaret Northup. This is the old W. T. Northup store, of late managed by W. A. Northup.

CANTON, ILL.—C. C. Shinn & Co., booksellers, have made an assignment in favor of creditors to the amount of $2346.50. The assignment of this amount is made upon judgment notes.

EL PASO, TEX.—J. H. Harper & Brother, booksellers, have been succeeded by C. Harper.

FORT PLAIN, N. Y.—Lewis Yerdon will open a book and stationery store here.

KANE, PA.—C. H. Townsend has opened a book-store here.

LYNN, MASS.—George H. Warren, recently employed as a clerk in the hat department of F. F. Dow & Co., has purchased the stationery and periodical store of W. E. Johnson & Co., No. 8 Union Square.

MT. AYR, IA.—H. G. Roberts has purchased a half interest in the business of Rhoades Brothers, booksellers. The style of the firm will be Rhoades & Roberts.

NEW BRITAIN, CONN.—Otto Bengston, bookseller, has sold out.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Excelsior Publishing House has severed its connection with the American News Company, and is now conducted as an independent concern under the old firm-name by T. J. Carey & Co., at 26 City Hall Place.

NEW YORK CITY.—Andrew H. Geyer, publisher of Geyer's Stationer, has removed to 318 Broadway, corner of Pearl Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—The impression seems to have gotten abroad that E. R. Pelton has given up the agency for the publications of the J. B. Lippincott Co. This is without any foundation whatever. Mr. Pelton is now fully established in his new quarters at 129 Fifth Avenue, where he has a spacious store conveniently located. He carries a full line of the Lippincott publications. His specialty is medical works. Besides his extensive book business, he also devotes much attention to the editing of his Eclectic Magazine of Foreign Literature, now in its fifty-second year.

NEW YORK CITY.—Anson D. F. and Arthur D. F. Randolph, publishers at 91 and 93 Fifth Avenue, under the style of Anson D. F. Randolph & Co., made an assignment on the 10th inst. to William J. Wiley, giving preferences for $16,750. The preferred creditors are Veturia Isabel Wiley, $5000; Henry Hadden, $2000; Robert Rutter, $2500; Stuart F. Randolph, $2000; People's Bank, $1000; Herbert Jenkins, $750; R. R. Bowker, $2000, and the Rev. Heman Dyer, $1500. Most of these are personal friends, who had loaned money to the firm to tide over threatening difficulties. The A. D. F. Randolph Company was incorporated a few days before the assignment was made, with a capital stock of $50,000, by Arthur D. F. Randolph, W. J. Wiley, and H. Holland, but a proposed reorganization on these lines was not completed. The firm gave on the 9th inst. a renewal of a chattel mortgage on plates to W. J. Wiley for $10,000, and one on books to R. Rutter for $2500.

PORT HURON, MICH.—The firm of R. S. Patterson & Co. was dissolved on the 1st inst. The members of the old firm—R. S. Patterson, J. D. Patterson, and D. MacTaggart—now compose the following three firms: R. S. & J. D. Patterson, Jewelry Department; Patterson & MacTaggart, Book, Stationery, and Music Department; R. S. Patterson, Pianos, Organs, and Sewing-Machine Department.

SARATOGA, N. Y.—Joseph McDonough, of 53 State Street, Albany, N. Y., has leased the store No. 7 under the Grand Union Hotel. It will be opened on the 15th with a choice selection from his stock of rare books.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Margaret Murray, bookseller, has had her stock injured by cyclone to the extent of about $800.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Henry E. Wedelstaed & Co., booksellers, are about to dissolve partnership.

UNION, S. C.—Smith & Nicholson, booksellers, have been succeeded by A. Nicholson.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

ONE more volume of the "Journal of Edmond de Goncourt" is announced, covering the time from 1892 to 1895.

THE PETER PAUL BOOK CO., Buffalo, N. Y., will publish shortly "The Diary of a Peculiar Girl," by George Austin Woodward.

GINN & CO. have in press a handbook on "The Strong and Weak Inflection in Greek," by B. F. Harding, head-master of the Belmont (Mass.) School.

MONTGOMERY WEST, of the old firm of West, Johnston & Co., Richmond, Va., has formed a business connection with the Baughman Stationery Co., of the same city.

JOHN F. VAN SAUN, who for eighteen years has been with G. W. Carleton and G. W. Dillingham, has been elected vice-president of The G. W. Dillingham Co. His friends in the trade throughout the country will congratulate him.

WAY & WILLIAMS, Chicago, have in preparation an American edition of "The Sonnet in England, and other essays," by the late James Ashcroft Noble, whom the London Athenæum considered the best equipped writer upon the sonnet in the English language. They also announce "From Cairo to the Soudan Frontier," by H. D. Traill, who spent the last two winters in Egypt; and a volume of essays entitled "The Color of Life," by Mrs. Meynell.

THE CAXTON CLUB, organized in Chicago in 1895, has in press its first book—a reprint of the "Journal of the Last Voyage of La Salle." The journal was written by Joutel, a commander in the expedition, and was originally published in London in 1714. It contains an account of the settlements which La Salle tried to make near the Gulf of Mexico, of his unfortunate death, and of the long return journey of his companions. The volume has been edited and annotated by Prof. Melville B. Anderson, of the Leland Stanford University.

THE EXCELSIOR PUBLISHING HOUSE (T. J. Carey & Co.), New York City, call attention to some of their useful and time-saving publications: "The 'Excelsior' English-Spanish and Spanish-English Dictionary," edited by A. M. A. Beale; "The Modern Sign-Writer and Art Ornamenter," lithographed in nine colors; "Chalk-Lessons, or, the black-board in the Sunday-school," by Frank Beard; a new revised edition of Brown's "Business Correspondence and Manual of Dictation"; and "'Cushing' Boiled Down." The publishers have also issued a neat edition of "The Complete Poems of George R. Sims," which may be had in cloth or paper.

AMONG the important medical books which Macmillan & Co. expect to publish in the near future is one on "The Fundus Oculi, with an ophthalmoscopic atlas illustrating its physiological and pathological conditions," by W. Adams Frost, Surgeon to the Royal Westminster Ophthalmic Hospital, etc. The author has had exceptional opportunities for the observation of many cases in the ophthalmic clinic of a large hospital. Besides illustrations in the text wherever the illustration of a diagram or sectional view is an aid to the clearer comprehension of the point in hand, the book will contain about fifty full-page plates, many of which are colored. These have, with few exceptions, been drawn from cases occurring in the author's own practice.

BALZAC did not form the idea of combining his works into the great whole of "La Comédie Humaine" until the year 1842. Until then these works were published, many of them piecemeal, in a bewildering variety of ways. From the time the first edition of "La Comédie Humaine" was published in 1842, he continued, until his death, to add new volumes to it and to remodel his old work, changing dates and nearly all the names of his principal personages. The result of this immense labor appears in the new édition de luxe which Roberts Brothers are publishing, and in no other edition. Several new features of great value towards a comprehensive study of Balzac's works and characters will also be embodied in their edition. It is appropriately called the Wormeley edition, and is the crowning result of some fifteen years of study and labor on the translator's part. The 280 illustrations by twenty different French artists, the fine quality of paper, print, and binding, will make this in every respect a desirable edition for the most fastidious collector.

HARPER & BROTHERS' plans for publication during the next two months include the following books: "The Silk of the Kine," a novel, by L. McManus, dealing with the eviction of Roman Catholics in Ireland in the seventeenth century; "Mrs. Gerald," a novel, by Maria Louise Pool; "Love Is a Spirit," a novel, by Julian Hawthorne; "The Pith of Astronomy" (without mathematics), the latest facts and figures as developed by the giant telescopes, by Samuel G. Bayne; "Tales of Fantasy and Fact," by Brander Matthews; "Rick Dale," a story for young people, by Kirk Munroe; "With My Neighbors," a number of plain talks to plain people on familiar and homely subjects, by Margaret E. Sangster; "A Story of the Heavenly Camp-Fires," by "One with a New Name"; "Shakespeare the Boy," by William J. Rolfe, Litt.D.; and "Harper's Dictionary of Classical Literature and Antiquities," edited by Prof. Harry Thurston Peck, of Columbia College, with the co-operation of many distinguished special contributors.

ARNOLD & CO., of Philadelphia, have in press a novel entitled "Not Without Honor," by William D. Moffat. The author may be known to many of our readers as the head of the advertising department of Charles Scribner's Sons and the business manager of The Book Buyer. Mr. Moffat was born at Princeton, N. J., Jan. 17, 1865, and from his birth has lived in an atmosphere of letters. His father, a Scotchman, was professor first in the college and then at the theological seminary at Princeton. The son received his early education at the Princeton Preparatory School, and graduated from the halls of Old Nassau with the class of '84. While still in college Mr. Moffat began writing stories for boys. Among his longer and better-known writings are "The County Pennant," "The Crimson Banner," and "Brad Mattoon." Always actively interested in athletics, Mr. Moffat naturally utilized his knowledge and experience in this direction in numerous unsigned short sketches and articles on out-of-door sports. The story he now has in press will be followed by several others.

The Best Key to Educational Books.

THE

American Educational Catalogue

whose value to the trade is proved by the fact that it is now in its twenty-seventh year, and that upwards of claims to be the best practical aid to the dealer in or buyer of school-books.

With its alphabetical arrangement by authors, its separate class-index, carefully sub-classified to an extent not followed by any other catalogue, its completeness and accuracy, it is presented as the best finding-list, the most convenient order-list, and the most satisfactory class-catalogue for school use.

The catalogue is made entirely new each year, to omit books which have dropped out of use and to include all live books, and all new books (ready or to be ready for the Fall) are added in their proper alphabetical place.

The page giving the key to publishers will not be given in imprint editions unless specially ordered.

This Catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers. The imprint edition possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS:

Imprint edition—without publishers' advertisements:
With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5.00; per 1000, $40.00.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that page, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5.00, or for $1.00 if plate is sent.

Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 50 cents per copy in leatherette.
